The thing I liked most was...

"you could switch between the practice and the textbook very easily. This allowed you to go back to the textbook if you didn't feel like you had read enough to continue doing the practice questions."

I used Connect because...

"it was both required for one of my classes and used as a supplemental source for another class. For both classes I was able to turn to Connect as a study source. It allowed me to understand the material better, and it was an easy way to do my homework assignments."

Connect helped me by...

"giving me clear access to vocabulary I needed to understand for the class. It also tested my knowledge of the material by chapter. The highlighted sections allowed me to sum up the main focus of paragraphs. In the practice sections, it gave you an option to read about the section from which the question was referring. This especially helped because you knew exactly what they wanted you to know in order to answer the question."

The result in my grade improvement was...

"that I improved on every test the more I used Connect. It was even clear to my professor that the more I used Connect, the more I mastered the concepts he wanted us to know."

I found the experience...

"very helpful. I would love for many of my classes to use this."

I would recommend Connect to students who...

"struggle with applying concepts. Rather than just repeating what the definitions were, you were able to apply the actual concepts. This made you think a little harder beyond just knowing the definition."

Connect made me happy because...

"it really improved my grade and understanding of the material. When you're wrong, it explains why you were wrong and tells you what the correct answer would be."
