Start with Questions

Start by Reading

After you click Begin, you will be taken to a Welcome page. You may either Start Reading or Start Questions. For the most effective learning experience, you should always Start Reading first.

Reading in SmartBook

Sections of the text have been highlighted for you. You may navigate by page or by key, highlighted concepts.

Concepts

1. DEFINING PSYCHOLOGY

When you think of the word psychology, what first comes to mind? Formally defined, psychology is the scientific study of behavior and mental processes. Let's consider the three key terms in this definition: science, behavior, and mental processes.

Highlighting in SmartBook

These concepts have been selected by your instructor to highlight learning objectives. While reading the entire chapter provides full context, you may want to focus on the highlighted content.

Question Mode and Format

Once you have read through the assigned content, click To Questions to start answering questions. Each question page contains the question, a confidence rating, and your progress bar. To complete a question, you will check your answer AND rate your confidence in your answer.

Your Answer Incorrect

Before moving on, you must review a resource for this question.

_____ believed that the mind and body were linked, while _____ believed that they were two separate entities.

☒ Descartes; Aristotle

☐ Aristotle; Descartes

Correct Answer

Aristotle; Descartes

Select a concept resource to continue.

The Adaptive Experience

SmartBook adapts to you. The confidence level does NOT affect your progress bar, but it DOES encourage you to think about your level of understanding. Behind the scenes, SmartBook identifies what you REALLY know and where you might need additional help.

Feedback

You will receive immediate feedback for both correct and incorrect answers. If you incorrectly answer multiple questions on the same concept, you may be provided with a learning resource— often a section of the text. This is designed to help you learn and move forward with your progress.

Your Score

Your assignment score is the percentage complete on due date as indicated by the progress bar.
