Introduction

McGraw-Hill Education’s College and Career Readiness Practice Workbooks align to the College and Career Readiness Standards (CCRS) and develop the foundational skills needed for High School Equivalency success. Because the series was designed to align to a number of key standards and examination objectives within Adult Education, these workbooks can be used with a number of other McGraw-Hill Education programs.

How to Use the Crosswalk

This document provides you with the information you need to fit this workbook series perfectly into your instruction as either stand-alone practice, or as additional practice supporting a number of other McGraw-Hill Education literacy, numeracy, and test preparation materials. With these crosswalks and reverse crosswalks, you will be able to use the CCR Practice Workbooks in the following ways:

Stand-alone Practice	Additional Practice	Pre-/Post-Assessment
Use the workbooks as stand-alone practice to determine students’ skill and content mastery levels. Use the crosswalks to determine what materials can be used to reinforce concepts not yet mastered.	Use the reverse crosswalks to determine which workbooks and lessons can help reinforce or remediate lessons within McGraw-Hill Education programs you already use.	Use the workbooks to assess student understanding before or after teaching a particular concept.

This specific document includes the crosswalks and reverse crosswalks for the Social Studies workbooks. If no page numbers are specified, then the entire lesson/chapter/unit references that content or skill.
