Reread and use the prompts to take notes in the text.

Circle text evidence in paragraphs 1 and 2 that tells you about Anansi's character.

Reread paragraphs 3 and 4. Talk with a partner about the relationship between Anansi and the old owl. Underline the dialogue that helps you understand how they feel about each other. Then reread paragraph 5. How does the author hint that something unpleasant might happen to Anansi? Draw a box around the clue. Write it here:

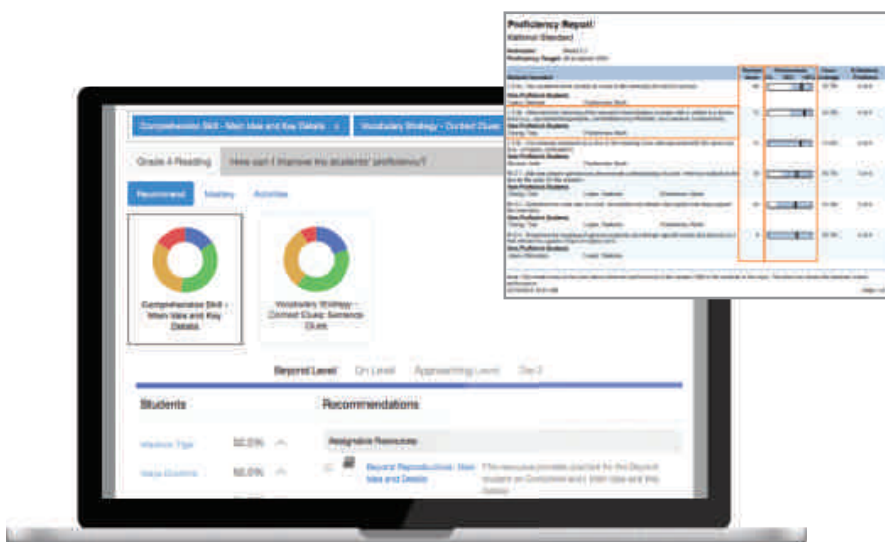

Read paragraphs 6-9. Circle the words and phrases that describe how the birds feel about Anansi and what they did.

With a partner, read paragraphs 10 and 11. Talk about how the owl helps Anansi. Number the steps in the margin.

A Clear Path to Progress

Today's rigorous standards challenge schools to prepare all students for the demands of 21st century college and careers. However, some students struggle to reach grade level and perform well on high-stakes tests. Direct Instruction (DI) programs are extensively tested and proven to ensure these students meet or surpass grade-level expectations in reading, language arts, and math. DI gives schools a clear path to achieving annual progress toward universal reading and math proficiency.

Proof

DI delivers evidence-based results.

Performance

DI raises teacher effectiveness as well as student achievement.

Progress

DI ensures that schools meet academic goals.

Prevent failure, promote literacy, and promise success.

Designed to work comfortably with your core early reading program or for Tier II interventions, SRA Early Interventions in Reading provides the significant increase in the intensity of instruction that low-level readers need to meet grade-level expectations. This program helps you identify struggling readers and provide them with lessons that build mastery of essential skills through explicit, systematic instruction in five critical strands: phonemic awareness; letter-sound correspondences; word recognition and spelling; fluency; and comprehension.

Build Spanish early literacy skills

The integrated curriculum of Intervenciones tempranas de la lectura provides an efficient framework for reading instruction. Rather than teaching skills in isolation, one by one, this program covers multiple strands in unison on a daily basis, each one tightly sequenced with the text. This design makes the program both more relevant and more effective.
