

6-12 VoICES™
IN CONCERT

10 unique collections of choral music, sight-singing, and curricula for today's choral classroom

21st Century Solution

Voices in Concert™ allows students to develop choral, sight-singing, and musicianship skills through a sequenced, leveled approach. There are 20 octavos in each of the 10 collections, and no selection is duplicated in any other level or voicing. Each selection is intended to be studied and practiced over a period of time ranging from several days to a month or more. Each book of octavos is paired with a spiral-bound piano accompaniment book, as well as a book of songs and exercises for sight-singing. These selections use trusted techniques such as combinable lines, solfège training, and pitch and rhythm exercises to develop students' inner ears and build confidence.

Curriculum for Music Literacy

Voices in Concert begins with the choral experience, then, through McGraw-Hill Education's online lessons and resources, many objectives will be presented and achieved, allowing the teacher maximum flexibility in developing a learning plan for their own individual circumstances. Each lesson begins with an introduction that connects the song to the student, and frames the historical and cultural aspect of the music to be performed. From there, as all lessons are correlated to the National Core Arts Standards, and in many instances, state standards, students are guided through lesson segments that provide multiple opportunities to connect, perform, respond, and create.

Assessment within Voices in Concert is systematic, objective, and authentic. There is ongoing informal assessment by teacher observation throughout each selection or topic. Students will be clear about purpose and direction, have multiple routes to success, and be involved in their own learning. The lessons will guide the teacher and student to share in the excitement of music making.

Literature from Level 2 Mixed

Fresh Choral Library

Songs have been chosen from multiple composers and publishers. They reflect a wide variety of programming and performance needs, from easier, "beginning-of-the year" selections, to specific needs for winter concert, festival, and lighter programming.

Songs include masterworks from the recognized composers and eras of music history, international songs from a variety of regions and cultures, and musical works set to significant texts and poetry. Special emphasis has been given to works of lasting value that will continue to offer benefits to each new group of students who study and perform them.

A Multi-Level Approach

Voices in Concert provides developmentally-progressive literature, carefully selected by the finest arrangers, composers and pedagogues today, including Emily Crocker, Rollo Dilworth, Henry Leck, Kari Gilbertson, and Lynne Gackle. Each selection is chosen to help build important vocal and sight-singing skills through a leveled approach. Build confident, strong musicians from day one. Each course below includes a choral book of the 20 octavos, a sight-singing book of songs and exercises, and a piano accompaniment book.

Notes

Anytime, Anywhere

With Music Studio, all content within Voices in Concert is intuitively accessible for the teacher and student in one place—from the recordings, lessons, and sight-singing material, to the assessments, Teacher Center and presentation tools. No downloads are necessary—everything can be accessed via the cloud, though there are opportunities to have the recordings and content available for off-line use, freeing the need to rely on an Internet connection.

Teacher Homepage

iOctavo

The Interactive Octavo (iOctavo) gives the teacher the ability to project every piece of music. Using this interface, one can visually track each selection, change tempo, play voice-dominant tracks or the accompaniment track, even jump to a new section. Students have access to this as well, so they can now more easily practice their parts away from the classroom.

Search, Filter, Explore

Using the intuitive Resources tab of Music Studio, teachers and students can access any of the digital resources (like iOctavos) within a collection. Search or filter for composers, songs, genres, styles, or languages that fit the exact need. This allows Voices in Concert to work for the teacher who only needs and utilizes individual resources, as well as the teacher using the complete package of curriculum.
